On What Will You “Chew” This Week?

Jason Hardin

Take a moment to reflect on the first two verses of Psalm 1.

Blessed is the man who walks not in the counsel of the wicked, nor stands in the way of sinners, nor sits in the seat of scoffers; but his delight is in the law of the LORD, and on his law he meditates day and night.

When the Bible talks about “meditating,” we shouldn’t picture someone sitting in silence with the goal of emptying their mind. Actually, quite the opposite. Meditating in Scripture is all about filling my mind with the word of God. In fact, what we have translated meditate in Psalm 1:2 comes from the Hebrew word for muttering under one’s breath. The blessed man of Psalm 1 hasn’t just read God’s word and gone on about his day. The word has sunk like a seed into his heart, he’s found it “delightful,” now he’s continuing to mentally “chew” on its message and meaning “day and night.”

That’s an insight we need to hear in the 21st century and an invitation worth accepting this week. When you pull up to a stop light... when you’re standing in line at the grocery store... as you’re working on a mindless task around the house... when all grows quiet toward the end of the day... on what will you “chew”?

What would happen if we left our phones in our pockets? Kept the laptop closed? Didn’t hit the POWER button on the TV? Left the speaker volume down? What if we made a conscious effort to mentally “chew” on Psalm 1, or a point from today’s sermon, or a hymn we’ll sing together? Might we be less anxious? More focused? On the path to greater maturity? Wouldn’t that be more “delightful” than most everything that fills our screens? One thing is certain. It’s the first word of Psalm 1. We would be “blessed.”

Let’s give our best to the Best today. In return, we’ll find plenty to chew on and delight in for the week ahead. We’re glad you’re here.
